

LIVING THE LIFE

BEAUTICONTROL®

Angie Barrett

National Executive Director

The life I love...

Angie Barrett is there to greet her daughter and son when they awake each morning. When they come through the door at the end of the day, she's there too. The mother of two children, Angie thanks BeautiControl for that luxury. "The best dream I live is when Sarah and Andrew walk through the door after school. I love the fact that I can be home when they come home, and I have the freedom to attend field trips and their activities. I truly am a stay-at-home mom with an executive level income!"

Angie joined BeautiControl in 1988 after using the products for more than a year. She was a teacher and wanted something fun to do during the summers. "I loved the products, but I never had any intention of doing anything more than part time." Today, Angie is a National Executive Director and plans to share the BeautiControl lifestyle of flexibility and freedom to more families. "I look forward to changing peoples lives," she says, "I've always believed in how big this can grow."

If being a stay-at-home mom is Angie's No. 1 perk, being her own boss is a close second. She loves the responsibility that comes with owning and operating her own business. "It doesn't even feel like a job. It's a career I love, and helping women is my passion."

“ It doesn't even feel like a job. It's a career I love, and helping women is my passion. ”

Angie's soaring success has earned her family many luxuries including a second home in Colorado. But when the Barretts are not enjoying their vacation home, they can be found traveling. "BeautiControl has afforded my family many wonderful trips. Travel is education for our kids. We make sure they learn as much on a trip with mom and dad as they can learn in school."

Being a leader in the BeautiControl business has allowed Angie to make lasting relationships. In nearly two decades with BeautiControl, she has seen countless women make wonderful friendships. She often looks to her own leadership team of Directors for encouragement. "We really have a sisterhood," Angie says, "The song 'We are Family,' really describes our team."

Though Angie and her family have seen and experienced many things because of her success with BeautiControl, the joy of being a hands on mom and being there for her family is what she is most grateful for. "I love going to my job because it's my home," she says, "It provides freedom and I've been able to raise my children!"

Best advice:

Keep at it. I always tell new Consultants that you don't want to make a decision about your success in this business until you have given it 90 days and you've done at least 20 Spa ESCAPEs.

heart & soul

I thank my parents. They gave me so many positive experiences growing up! I was very active and involved in my school and community. My mom saw to it that I participated in any leadership experience I could. During college I served as an officer in my sorority, and this is where I really put my leadership skills into action. After college I worked for several years with the Gallup Organization, a company focused on building teams through strengths. This was invaluable training!
